

STATE OF ALASKA

Executive Proclamation by Governor Bill Walker

WHEREAS, the health of our citizens is a major concern, and we appreciate the quality service of health care professionals serving Alaskans; and

WHEREAS, qualified practitioners who specialize in the use of medical radiation and imaging technology to aid in the diagnosis and treatment of diseases and ailments share a commitment to bring the people of this state a safer, more compassionate environment now and in the future; and

WHEREAS, the dedication of professionals in the medical imaging sciences to a high standard of professionalism is reflected through education, lifelong learning, credentialing, and personal commitment; and

WHEREAS, November 8-15, 2015, has been designated National Radiologic Technology Week to recognize the important role of medical radiation to the field of health care and the skilled and conscientious efforts of radiologic technologists.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Bill Walker, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF ALASKA, do hereby proclaim November 8-15, 2015 as:

Radiologic Technology Week

in Alaska, and encourage all Alaskans to recognize the value of radiologic technology and education in an effort to bring Alaskans the best healthcare available.
